

The new 'Museum of the Inquisition' in Belo Horizonte has been recently inaugurated. 2012-08-28

The Museum seeks to tell the story of a period of suffering, persecution and killing at the hands of the Church in Minas Gerais and throughout the world.

The new 'Museum of the Inquisition' in Belo Horizonte has been recently inaugurated.

Last week, on August 21, 2012 the newly established 'Museum of the Inquisition' in the Brazilian city of Belo Horizonte has opened its doors.

According to the press release the Museum seeks to tell the story of a period of suffering, persecution and killing at the hands of the Church in Minas Gerais and throughout the world.

The Museum's address is:

55 Rua Cândido Street, Bairro Ouro Preto, Pampulha região

Hours are Sunday from 10 to 16 pm and between Tuesday and Friday from 9 to 17 pm. Entrance fee is 8 reales . Entrance for students and seniors is free of charge .